Hard Words in a Church.

The annual election for church wardens and vestrymen in Emannel Reformed Episcopal church on Jersey City Heights was held Tuesday night. The rector announced that the business of the meeting was to elect two wardens and five vestrymen. While he was speaking Vestryman De Freites walked to the platform and announced that he had been appointed by the church vestry to preside. He selected Mr. Gallagher as assistant, and said the first business was to select a secretary.

"Here!" cried Justice Thompson "Now excuse me, but you will not take charge of this meeting; see?" Samebody nominated Mr. Thompson for escretary, and some one else named Vestry-man McMurray. Mr. Windeyer put the question for the former, and Mr. De Freitzs for the latter. Everybody yelled yes, and the two chairmen declared their men electcd. Lawyer Savage, who appeared for the rector, tried to explain that he came only as a friend, and wanted to see peace, with the rector presiding. He was constantly interrupted. Lawyer Cowles was counsel for the other side and he said there was no rector. "It is the warden's duty to preside," he

I want to beg of you to do nothing that would bring reproach on the cause of Christ. The title of the rector who stands there with the open Bible before him is in disputs. The title of the warden who sits a the chair is in dispute. Let a little oil be poured on the troubled waters and appoint a disinterested party as Chairman."

The oil didn't come, for the next instant

Mr. Wilson, one of the audience, yelled to Lawyer Cowles, who started to speak:

"Cowles, you think you're God Almighty, don't you? But you sin't." "No he sin't. He is a liar," said a woman sitting near him.

Mr. De Freites and Lawyer Cowies consulted, and finally agreed to allow Mr. Gallagher to preside.

The has in which the ballots were to be deposited was placed on a chair in the toild-deed the placerm, and the Chairman said e was ready to receive the ballots. Old Zich Turley east the first vote, and it was for the vestrymen. It was objected to.
